MOTHER CRIED FOR HELP

Bear Attacks, Kills Seven-Year-Old Girl

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — A black tourist bear turned killer in Jasper National Park Friday, mauling to death a seven-year-old girl as it attempted to drag the child and her mother into the woods near their tourist cabin.

An inquest was to be held today into the death of Barbara Christine Coates, believed the first person killed by a bear in the park's history.

Barbara was picnicking with her mother, Mrs. Jack Coates of Calgary, and five-year-old sister near their cabin at Sunwapta Falls, 30 miles south of this Rocky Mountain resort, when the bear attacked her.

Described by park superintendent J. A. Pettis as a "tourist bear... a four-year-old and medium sized," the animal apparently grabbed Barbara when she wandered away from her mother. Mrs. Coates said Barbara had gone behind the cabin to pick berries when her five-year-old sister Alison suddenly rushed to her mother screaming "it's a bear."

TRIPPED ON STEPS

The bear caught Barbara as she tripped on the cabin steps. Moments later, Mrs. Coates came to her daughter's aid and began crying for other cabin dwellers who had arrived at the scene to help.

"They couldn't seem to come to my relief," she said. "Most of them ran around like crazy. They seemed to be emotionally off balance."

"One big man—I think he grabbed a stick—tried to help, but he just seemed to freeze on the spot. "All the time, I hung on to Barbie's feet, calling to onlookers to distract the bear."

Mrs. Coates said the bear dragged her and her daughter some 50 feet through brush before she lost her grip. The bear then dropped Barbara when three girls rushed up and shouted at it.

SHOT BEAR

The proprietor of the cabins arrived "just as the bear was turning on the girls" and shot the animal.

Though Mr. Pettis said the bear was "no stranger," RCMP said it was "a large animal and may have been a stray that wandered into the park."

Barbara died in an ambulance en route to Seton Hospital in Jasper. Coroner Dr. J. Venner said she died of "a combination of hemorrhage, shock and a fractured spine."

RCMP said Mrs. Coates was not seriously injured although "she may have been scratched a bit."

LEAVE FOR HOME

Mr. Coates was fishing near the scene but did not hear of his daughter's death until he returned a few hours later. The Coates family left for their Calgary home within hours after the mid-morning tragedy.

Their third child, an infant, was in their cabin when Barbara was killed.

Park superintendent Pettis said it was, to his knowledge, the first time a person has been killed by a bear in Jasper. He has been employed at the park for seven years.

He said the bear was one of many that roam freely through the 4,200-square-mile park. "People have been scratched by them before but this is the first time anything this serious has happened," he said.

NOT ENCLOSED

Mr. Pettis said there was no enclosure around the cabins at which the Coates family was staying. Beyond patrolling wardens and signs warning visitors not to approach the bears, the animals were not restricted.

Mrs. Coates said she felt camping in the area should not be allowed if the wildlife could not be trusted.

"We were never warned about the danger of bears," she said. "All I knew was that it isn't wise to feed them."

"That we did not do."

Princess Arrives In Nova Scotia

YARMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — A smiling Princess Margaret stepped from her plane under bright skies here Saturday and touched Nova Scotia soil for the first time.

The plush C-54 RCAF plane which carried her from Fredericton arrived on schedule at 2 p.m. A quiet crowd of about 700 watched the princess receive an official welcome from Revenue Minister Novlan. She then inspected an RCAF guard of honor.

The princess, on the last leg of a Canadian tour, will travel today by helicopter to Church Point and Digby for celebrations there.

ECONOMIC 'DARK SPOTS'

Another Huge Deficit?

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP) — Another huge federal budget deficit appears to be in the making for the next fiscal year.

The ink has hardly dried on the current-year forecast but the experts are already looking ahead and what they see are still some dark spots on the economic horizon.

They have been watching hopefully for a sure sign of recovery, but though the economy appears to be still hitting a good, steady pace there are no indications of the spectacular rises that featured the record strides of the last two years.

Next winter may see another heavy bout of unemployment, one of the worst since the depression of the 1930s. National production for 1959 may show little change from that of the current year.

ONLY CONJECTURES

But at the moment those can only be conjectures. What 1959 will bring will depend to a great extent on world factors and conditions and particularly on trends and policies in the United States, Canada's main export market.

In the meantime, the guessing is going on.

On June 17, Finance Minister Fleming forecast a peacetime record deficit of $648,000,000, based on budgetary expenditures rising this year to $5,300,000,000 from last year's $5,086,000,000 and revenues declining to $4,652,000,000 from $5,047,000,000.

The experts don't see much change ahead from this trend. In fact they believe expenditures may continue to rise with perhaps no major change in revenues.

Harvey Perry, a former federal tax expert now director of the Canadian Tax Foundation, believes that 1959 will not prove very optimistic.

"I wish I could offer some evidence to support an optimistic outlook," he observed in a recent speech, "but I haven't been able

MCDONALD CHARGED; B.C. WIDE HUNT BEGINS

ALL SET FOR MAIN JAMBOREE EVENT

All set for the big square dance jamboree at King's Park tonight are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Milward, Aloha, Wash., and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lindenau, Hoquiam, Wash., as they appeared at the final street dancing session this morning.

Festival to Set New Attendance Records

New attendance records are in sight for the 11th annual Penticton and District Peach Festival and concurrent fifth annual B.C. Square Dance Jamboree as the gala fun-fest rolls merrily through its fourth and final day today.

Although crowds at the Agricultural and Rotary Industrial Exhibition, the midway and the varied array of grounds attractions, were not quite as big as hoped for, total attendance for the four days is expected to top 21,000, the most optimistic forecasters predicting in excess of 22,000. Last year, when the festival was still a three-day affair, total attendance was just under 20,000.

DANCE JAMBOREE

At King's Park, meanwhile, where the square dance jamboree is being held tonight, the big 20,000-square foot open-air plywood floor has vibrated to the rhythmic swinging and swaying of a rapidly increasing number of dancers which is expected to be around 1,600 persons including spectators, tonight.

There were about 850 dancers and some 150 spectators at the park last night for the "get acquainted" dance, final pre-jamboree event.

Callers included Al Berry of Hope, Tommy Davidson of Edmonton, Jack Lech and Les McConville from Seattle, Clint Renny of Olympia, Wash., Orville Martin and Bootie Card of Calgary, Pete Prentice of Vancouver and Ray Linenau of Hoquiam, Wash.

Callers farthest from home was Howard Dudley of La Jolla, California.

Others were on hand from Tonasket, Okanagan, Richland, and Orville in Washington; Inland, Alberta, and Penticton, Trail, Port Moody and West Summerland in British Columbia.

Al Berry of Hope was master of ceremonies and Les Boyer of Okanagan, Wash., will be emcee for the jamboree tonight.

Last night's winners in the nightly draw for a man's Western shirt and a woman's ornately sequined shirt were Albert Lloyd of Powell River and Joan Potter of Oliver.

Over at the festival grounds, meanwhile, the night was ablaze with the colored splendor of klieg lights for the third straight day while calliope music, slide show and display booth "barkers" and signs in gay profusion vied for the attention of the thousands swarming about the Rotary exhibition and the midway.

Extra free attractions on the grounds — 10-year-old unicyclist Shelby Howe of Vancouver, the clown Fifi, and the Shell Mollusks Show, as well as the Amateur Talent Contest — continued to attract a densely-packed circle of admirers.

Attendance at the second performance of the Spotlight Stage production, was disappointing in view of the first rate entertainment offered. Only 600 persons were on hand in the Peach Bowl to enjoy an even greater show than the first night as all the acts dovetailed more smoothly and the performers outdid themselves in "giving it all we've got."

The B.C. Square Dance Jamboree on the open-air floor at King's Park.

Drawing for $1,200 worth of gate prizes at the exhibition will be held at 11 p.m. with the drawing for the 1958 Consul sedan that is being raffled on the grounds, to be held at 11:30 p.m.

False Burglaries Claimed By Police

Frank McDonald, elderly Summerland businessman, was remanded in custody without plea this morning after being charged with creating a public mischief by reporting two burglaries that did not in fact occur.

McDonald is the man who twice this week set off huge manhunts in the vicinity of his home near Giant's Head mountain. On Wednesday he reported food had been stolen after a screen had been broken on the door of his house. Friday he turned in a second report that his home had been entered and clothing stolen.

On each occasion the RCMP rushed to the scene, cordoned off the area and commenced a search for gunman John Morrison.

McDonald, a past president of the Summerland Kiwanis club, is at present convener for the Summerland Board of Trade Fall Fruit Fair, and is former vice-president of the Summerland Rink Association. He is a partner in a Summerland building supply business. He is married and has a son Larry with the RCAF in England.

H. A. Callaghan, Penticton

lawyer, appeared on his behalf this morning.

Maximum sentence facing McDonald on either of the two charges is five years. No minimum term is specified in the criminal code.

Inspector C. W. Speers, RCMP Chilliwack, said this morning at the first press conference of the week that the apparent false leads given had thrown the police "into a tail-spin."

"When we found the bicycle thrown down a cliffside we felt reasonably sure we were on Morrison's trail," he said. "But the reports of burglaries, stolen food and clothes, convinced us that Morrison was still hiding in a Summerland area. As a result we had to keep men stationed permanently in the area to track down all these leads."

The inspector said they could no longer be sure just where the man who shot Corporal Ralph Brown twice on Tuesday after-

"We now realize that no one has definitely seen Morrison since the shooting. He had about three-quarters of an hour to make his get-away from the scene before we had our first road blocks up. There is no way of telling which way he went or how far."

Asked about the shots fired at a man crossing the railway trestle near the Summerland experimental farm in the early hours of Wednesday morning, Inspector Speers said there was no way of being sure that the man was Morrison.

"He was too far away to be properly identified. We assumed it was Morrison, but it may not have been."

Inspector Speers asked the press this morning to convey his thanks to the people of Summerland and Penticton for their wonderful co-operation with the police during the past week.

Morrison is wanted for questioning on the murder of Anita Budde, German immigrant woman slain in Kaleden sometime during last Sunday night and a warrant is out for his arrest for the attempted murder of Corporal Brown.

Road blocks have been removed from the Summerland-Penticton area but constant patrols will be made of all back roads and outlying districts.

POLICE ISSUE FIRST FULL DESCRIPTION OF GUNMAN

The first full description of wanted gunman John N. Morrison was issued by the RCMP this morning.

Inspector C. W. Speers said Morrison was not the wanted man's real name, but that he had always travelled as John Morrison while in the Okanagan picking fruit.

Morrison is an alias for Donald G. Stevens, believed to be a Canadian citizen of Scots or English descent.

Five feet, eight inches in height, he weighs approximately 180 pounds. He has a heavily lined, deeply tanned face and very blue eyes. When last seen he was wearing drab blue pants, a long sleeved sweater-shirt and a peaked cap. He is known to talk to himself while walking and to talk a great deal in a loud voice when he is a listener. His nose is small and his teeth are filled with metal or gold. His hair is a rusty sandy color and he has been described as of heavy build.

Inspector Speers urged that any motorist seeing a man answering this description report the incident immediately to the nearest RCMP detachment office, border patrol, or sheriff's office in the United States.

"If motorists are a long way from a police office they can call a phone operator from the nearest phone. She will know what to do," he said. "It is important that we get the report immediately. During the past week some motorists have seen suspicious characters but have not reported them until they arrived at their destination. It is imperative that we know as soon as possible so that we can dispatch men to the scene."

All motorists are advised not to pick up hitch-hikers. Stevens or Morrison is regarded as highly dangerous.

34 Killed in Plane Crackup

BENGHAZI, Libya (Reuters) —

Thirty-four persons were killed near here today when a Viscount airliner bound from Southern Rhodesia to London crashed into a hillside as it came in for a landing.

Twenty persons survived the crash but many were badly injured.

The plane crashed on the slopes of the Rogma Mountain, six miles from Benghazi's Benina Airport as it was preparing to land.

The Viscount, operated by Central African Airways, was carrying 47 passengers and a crew of seven.

Among the 20 survivors were four babies and three crew members. The survivors also included Sir Alfred Savage, 53, a former governor of British Guiana and Barbados, and Lady Savage.

Calls for Integration Of Defence Resources

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson says the defence production resources of Canada and the United States should be integrated like their air defence commands.

He threw out the suggestion Friday in the Commons as the government's $1,686,000,000 defence budget for 1958-59 whizzed through the House in less than two hours.

But he didn't hold out much hope for his suggestion.

The former Liberal government, he said, had tried without success to sell Canada's CF-100 jet interceptor to the U.S. when Washington was admitting it was the best of its type in the world.

The U.S. aircraft industry "was not going to allow any interference with its own right to produce its own aircraft for its own government."

Mr. Pearson added that he doesn't think Defence Minister

Pearkes will have any more success trying to persuade the U.S. to buy the supersonic CF-105 jet, now under development.

NOT OUTDATED

Mr. Pearkes, who made only a brief speech because of his lengthy testimony before the Commons estimates committee which studied defence expenditures, rejected the contention of Arnold Peters (CCF-Timiskaming) that Canadian defences are out of date.

"We have an adequate defence to meet the possible attack of today," he said.

Mr. Pearkes also said "some major re-equipping of our army cannot be long delayed" and that steps are being taken to improve the method of processing information collected by the radar warning lines.

The Commons also approved estimates of the defence production department and moved to those of the state secretary's department.

At this point Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) suggested that MPs read the 500-odd books banned from Canada as salacious literature. They would thus be better equipped to deal with the problem.

URGENT MORE STORAGE

Earlier, the Commons agriculture committee tabled a report recommending that federal funds be made available for increased public storage facilities for western grain.

Mr. Pearson urged procurement of tactical atomic weapons for Canadian air defence.

A situation could be contemplated where Canadian squadrons under North American Air Defence Command (NORAD) would not have nuclear weapons while U.S. squadrons under NORAD did have them.

"I suggest this is a situation which, in the long run, will not be considered tolerable in this country."

Mr. Pearson also urged increased emphasis on air defence, even at the possible expense of reduction of Canadian forces in Europe.

Princess to Watch Mock Army Battle

By GEORGE McNEVIN

FREDERICTON (CP) — Princess Margaret was to end her New Brunswick visit today by watching a mock battle involving army units at nearby Camp Gagetown.

She was then to head for Nova Scotia to wind up her cross-Canada tour. The military display was announced by the army Friday as a last-minute change in plans.

The princess had been scheduled to tour the camp and inspect troops but she asked for the mock battle with infantry and armored groups taking part.

A unit of tanks using blank cartridges was to be employed. An army spokesman said there would be no firing near the princess.

FLEES FROM RAIN

Princess Margaret's activities Friday ended with a hasty retreat from a harness racing meet when the area was hit by a downpour. She fled under a big black umbrella with the rest of the royal party.

Before the race, the princess was offered through her equestrian, Maj. John Griffin, two betting tickets. The offer was made by an elderly, shirt-sleeved man who asked whether the princess would like tickets "on something that might win."

Maj. Griffin declined with a smile, explaining that "she never does." The man was not identified.

The card was almost an hour late in starting and the crowd became restless waiting for the princess to appear. An RCMP spokesman said the delay resulted from her being two hours late leaving a summer cottage about seven miles from here on the St. John River where she had spent the day.

The princess and members of her personal staff played records and had a lobster lunch at the cottage.

Nautilus Heads Toward Europe

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The atomic submarine Nautilus headed toward Europe today after pioneering a trans-polar path for tomorrow's commerce — or missile-riding undersea craft.

The USS Nautilus—the world's first nuclear submarine—completed its 1,830-mile journey under ice four days ago. It travelled from the Pacific to the Atlantic, passing through the Arctic Ocean lying between North America and Russia.

The voyage was announced Friday at a special White House ceremony. President Eisenhower, in a citation to Nautilus commander William H. Anderson, stressed the commercial possibilities opened by the voyage. The military implications are obvious, but Eisenhower left them unmentioned.

"This points the way for further exploration and possible use of this route by nuclear-powered cargo submarines as a new commercial seaway between the major oceans of the world," he said.

MISSILE SUBS COMING

On the building ways are the first U.S. ballistic missile submarines. From gaps in the ice, beneath which the Nautilus cruised unseen, these underwater war craft can lob their hydrogen-headed missiles at targets in Eurasia.

While Washington preferred to ignore publicly the military implications, Royal Navy sources in London said "It means that atomic-driven submarines could cross from the north coast of the American continent beneath the ice to launch attacks on the northern shore of the Soviet Union."

There was no immediate comment by the Russians, but a Communist newspaper in Paris said it showed that "American research is in no way oriented toward pacific realizations."

Whatever purpose the government put the Nautilus' feat, the long cruise beneath the sea compiled a record of arduous navigation, cold courage and technical skill.

DECORATES SKIPPER

Eisenhower conferred on Cmdr. Anderson, the 37-year-old skipper, the Legion of Merit and asked him to take back to his crew a presidential unit citation.

The Nautilus left Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, before dawn July 23. Sailing northward, it passed through the Bering Strait, between Alaska and Siberia, and on toward the Arctic.

Anderson was asked whether he thought the Russians may have detected the Nautilus as it moved through the Bering Strait.

"If the Russians detected us, they're awfully good," he replied. In charting the "Northwest Passage" from the Bering Sea to the Greenland Sea, the Nautilus travelled for 96 hours submerged under a thick ice cover. The sub was navigated by a form of dead reckoning.

Late last Sunday, the Nautilus reached the north pole. From there, Anderson wrote Eisenhower a letter noting the event. Anderson left the Nautilus by helicopter when it was off Iceland. He was taken to an air base and flown by plane to the capital.

From here, he is scheduled to fly the Atlantic and board the Nautilus before she makes a western European port, possibly in Britain.

Seek Details of Union Car Used In Man's Burning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets investigators sought details today of the hurry-up bargain sale of a Teamsters Union automobile reported used later in the fatal burning in Michigan of Frank Kierdorf.

John L. McClellan, chairman of the special Senate committee, ordered the inquiry Friday following testimony that the automobile was sold for no money down to Herman Kierdorf, uncle of the fire victim and former aide to teamster president James R. Hoffa.

Frank Kierdorf, 56, business agent for a Pontiac, Mich., teamster local, died Thursday after suffering burns in setting fire to a Flint, Mich., drycleaning shop Sunday night.

Michigan authorities said the nephew also indicated his uncle, Herman, 68, was at the fire scene. The elder Kierdorf disappeared Monday and is sought on a warrant charging possession of a silencer-equipped gun.

Testimony on the sale of the union-owned Cadillac climaxed a day in the committee's inquiry into allegations that Hoffa's union is involved with underworld characters. The hearings are in recess until Tuesday.

SILENT ON SALE

In other developments Friday, Paul (the Walter) Ricca, a Capone-era gangster, refused to say why he sold his luxurious home at Long Beach, Ind., to the Teamsters Union for $150,000.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the estate was bought by the teamsters in 1956 with the announced plan of using it as a training school for business agents.

But Kennedy suggested the real reason for the sale was because Ricca was a friend of Owen J. (Bert) Brennan, one of Hoffa's in-charming "Northwest teamster allies.

Russia Wooing Latin America

By CHARLES E. FRANKEL

LONDON (Reuters)—The Soviet Union is wooing Latin America with new vigor.

Moscow radio and Soviet newspapers now contain many references to Latin America, considered by the United States to be its special sphere of influence. The Monroe Doctrine of 1823 warned Europe to keep hands off.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev criticized U.S. policy south of Mexico in his latest letter to President Eisenhower. While the main subjects in Tuesday's letter were on the Middle East crisis and a summit meeting, Khrushchev took extra pains to take into account American policy in Latin America.

He cast aspersions on U.S. sincerity in its support for the small powers by dragging up Latin American references.

INTERFERENCE CHARGE

"There are still certain people in the U.S.A. who persist in prying themselves that the government of the U.S.A. interfered in the affairs of Guatemala and expelled the lawfully-elected government and president," Khrushchev told Eisenhower.

"Can it be possible that that also accords with your interpretation of caring for small countries and respecting their independence and dignity?"

sign of Soviet interest in Latin America is the number of South American tourists and delegations going to Moscow.

The same day that Khrushchev talked with U.S. Democrat Adlai Stevenson, the Soviet premier granted an interview to Gen. Jose Rafael Gabaldon, chairman of the Venezuela peace committee.

Khrushchev and the general talked about the present international situation, Latin American problems and "changing the status of this region into a peace zone."

Communist China also has shown a new interest in Latin America. The New China news agency, for example, reported the visit to Brazil this week of U.S. State Secretary Dulles.

Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung, Chinese head of state, in their recent joint communique noted the "just struggles" of the national independence movement of the peoples of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Scores of miles of signal circuit are added annually to Canadian National Railways and the railway operates two cars specially equipped for employee instruction in signalling methods and maintenance.

Two Warships Will be Sold

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Pearkes indicated Friday that the cruisers Quebec and Ontario will be sold through War Assets Disposal Corporation or broken up for scrap.

He said the two warships, which have been used for training, will be declared "surplus to requirement."

The Quebec has already been decommissioned and placed in reserve at Sydney, N.S. The Ontario will also be decommissioned and her training functions transferred to an operational frigate squadron.

Opening a Commons debate on his department's 1958-59 budget of $1,686,000,000, Mr. Pearkes said "some major re-equipping of our army cannot be long delayed."

"Intensive study" now was being given to the new weapon which should be procured.

"We now are entering a new era in defence, an era when the threat of the manned bomber is being supplemented by the threat of a missile."

"The government will take measures to meet this new threat to our security."

He did not elaborate on what measures are planned except to say that steps are being taken to improve the method of processing information collected by the radar lines.

Police Agents Among Freedomites Admitted

KELOWNA — Police agents are working within the Sons of Freedom group, staff Sgt. W. J. McKay, RCMP, section NCO at Nelson, affirmed in testimony in the Kelowna district court bomb conspiracy hearings, yesterday.

Sgt. McKay admitted the existence of undercover agents during cross-examination by John Steeves, defense counsel for John Anticoff, one of five accused Sons of Freedom men.

Sgt. McKay said in crown testimony that the Sons of Freedom group "have been a source of trouble for the last 30 years that I've had experience with them, and for many years before that."

He said there have been close to 2,000 convictions against the Sons of Freedom group in B.C., many of them for nude parading, and blamed the group for "falling the trouble — arson, blasting, burning of schools, churches and other buildings, blasting of power and railway lines."

BLAMES LEADERS

In cross examination, he was asked "why do they do it?" Sgt. McKay said that in his personal opinion "I don't think the parties who are doing it are responsible in their own minds. I'm sure these peasants, including the five accused, would be good citizens, but in my opinion there's someone behind them, egging them on."

"I think it's the leaders," Sgt. McKay said he has studied the activities of Sons of Freedom and Doukhobor groups for 30 years. He said, however, that he is "not an expert. No one is." He has been stationed at Nelson RCMP detachment since 1928.

Charged are Sam Konklin, 27; Alex Konklin, 26; John Anticoff, 24; George Voykin, 22; and John Nazarov, 21. The charge, carrying a maximum penalty of 14 years, is conspiracy to manufacture an explosive with intent to cause serious property damage.

RCMP crime lab said Thursday afternoon that spots of explosive appear on two matching pieces of tissue paper linked to Okanagan Magistrate D. M. White said the hearing may continue until Saturday morning. A staggering 38 exhibits have been entered by prosecutor E. C. Weddell, QC, and 24 crown witnesses called to date.

One piece was found in an unexploded bomb at Vernon, June 28, the other in an RCMP search July 7 at the residence of Sam and Alex Konklin.

Sgt. E. E. James of the RCMP crime lab at Regina said he found several small brown spots "of a type I would expect to be caused by nitroglycerine" on both pieces of paper.

From microscopic and chemical examination, "I concluded the spots were similar and were highly indicative of being of dynamite origin," Sgt. James testified. He explained that nitroglycerine is a component of dynamite.

Earlier Thursday RCMP Constable W. R. Picton entered photographs as crown exhibits which showed a magnified view of the two pieces of paper matching exactly along a jagged tear line. Constable Picton said the two pieces "were once the same piece of paper."

Magistrate D. M. White said the hearing may continue until Saturday morning. A staggering 38 exhibits have been entered by prosecutor E. C. Weddell, QC, and 24 crown witnesses called to date.

Guests came from Edmonton and Calgary, Powell River, California and Victoria and the Gulf Islands, as well as from many other points in the Province.

At the conclusion of the dancing refreshments of coffee and home made pies were enjoyed. The California guests particularly kept coming back for more of the peach pies that were featured.

Canadians and Cars

Canadians in 1957 travelled, more miles in their cars than ever before. The 4½ million vehicles in use travelled 36.8 billion miles. This compares with 33.6 billion miles in 1956 and 15.1 billion miles 10 years ago. The 1958 edition of "Facts and Figures of the Automotive Industry" released today by the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce reveals that 3.4 million passenger cars and one million trucks were registered last year. There is now a vehicle in Canada for every 3.7 persons and a passenger car for every 4.9.

Motor vehicle sales dollar volume exceeded $1 billion for the third consecutive year. New passenger car sales were valued at $1,087,620,000 and new commercial vehicles at $281,311,000.

The number of licensed drivers in the nation climbed to a new peak of 5.3 million. The years' driving consumed 3.1 billion gallons of gasoline.

Production of cars and trucks was 413,577 valued at $789,521,266. Motor vehicle manufacturers also shipped an additional $159,075,394 in repair parts, accessories and other products. It is estimated that $550,000,000 worth of motor vehicle parts and accessories were shipped from other industries.

Expenditures on new plants, equipment and repair and maintenance amounted to $30.1 million by the manufacturers. An additional $180.7 million was spent by the automotive parts, petroleum products and rubber industries.

Employment in motor vehicle manufacturing during 1957 averaged 38,518 monthly and total annual payroll was $168.5 million.

Canada's motor vehicle purchasers paid $163 million in federal sales and excise taxes. Provincial governments collected $324.2 million in gasoline tax revenues and $128.4 million in registration fees.

Highway expenditures in 1957 for all roads and streets totalled $886 million.

Imports of motor vehicles totalled 80,011 including 70,796 cars and 9,215 trucks. Exports were 16,244 cars and 3,876 trucks.

More About Safe Driving

One of the most significant developments to come out of the many safety programs which are gaining support throughout Canada, is that truck and bus drivers are learning that they are not as proficient at the wheel as they once thought says a government official. "They are becoming aware that the human element in relation to control of a speeding vehicle is, at best, a deficient one, no matter how expert the driver may be in handling his vehicle.

"For instance, when it rains it pours, doesn't fit into our accident rate whatsoever, because in bad weather accidents are fewer than in good weather.

"It has been found that in bad weather drivers of motor vehicles are more careful and seem to be 'on their toes,' and because of this accidents are greatly reduced. In good weather the accidents take a sharp increase, showing that motorists are inclined to let up in their driving and do not drive as safely and carefully as they can.

"Driving should be the same the year around. In other words, don't be a 'foul weather driver,' but be as careful and safe in fair weather. In this manner we may be able to better our accident record.

"When all automobile and commercial vehicle drivers learn to take into account the factor of human limitations in relation to the application of driving controls when out on the highway, or in the city, they presumably will be involved in fewer traffic accidents."

The Canadian Example

After the Queen opened the Canadian Parliament last fall in a televised ceremony there was some complaint in the United Kingdom that TV watchers in Britain had never enjoyed a similar spectacle on their screens. In itself the Ottawa television broadcast illustrated the different atmosphere attending royalty in this country. Journalists in Britain, for example, have never been given a royal press conference, whereas both the Queen and Princess Margaret have met the press of this country either in direct audience or at informal assembly.

The Canadian example is bearing fruit. It has been announced by Prime Minister Macmillan that the next state opening of the Westminster parliament, this fall, will be televised. Some doubts have been expressed nevertheless. There is fear this might be the thin edge of a wedge that would open parliamentary debates to television, although strict assurances on this point have been given. What seems to be of more concern is that because she reads the Throne Speech which outlines government policy the Queen might in some minds be linked to one particular political party. This would be detrimental to the constitutional position of the monarchy which is above and beyond all party politics, and steps will be taken to ensure that the broadcast commentary makes this distinction clear.

The intimacy of the Crown with the people of Great Britain no doubt accounts for these precautions. It would be most unlikely that when she opened the Canadian parliament last year anyone in Canada would associate the Queen with the party now in power at Ottawa. Her Majesty functioned in her constitutional guise of neutrality. One should imagine a people so well versed in politics as the British people would be under no misapprehension either. It looks rather as though the break with former practice comes hard to some Westminster parliamentarians, and they are nervous about a new departure. At all events the Canadian precedent has caused a change, and TV watchers in Britain can thank Ottawa for a spectacle which no doubt they will thoroughly enjoy.

TALK OF THE VALLEY

One Loud Shot and The Posse Jumped

It isn't funny really, but if you could have been there you would have enjoyed it.

The posse was moving across a lush orchard, guns at the ready. Across the way the only noise disturbing the pastoral scene was a farm tractor busily operating with a grower at the wheel.

When the tractor tire blew the posse jumped around four feet in the air, a Vancouver news photographer went up a much that the Herald could keep the public aware of the search situation.

Boisterous Role To Conducting

By HARRY CALNEK

HALIFAX (CP)—Don Warner whose sideline is boisterous comedy, will take up his baton Sept. 1 to play subdued music for Montreal's supper club set.

The Halifax band leader, a favorite with Nova Scotians, began his musical career with a mouth organ when he was a toddler.

Two decades ago he won recognition here as violinist with a boys' orchestra. Now he is booked for an indefinite period at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel. His last appearance in Halifax Aug. 11 was for background music at a dinner for Princess Margaret. Warner likes progressive, or "cool," jazz but doesn't play it. He'll be offering catchy swing music in Montreal.

Rock 'n' roll is out. "It's just a publisher's gimmick," he says. "I don't enjoy it or intend to play it. I don't think it's very honest."

It's just a very old style that's been dragged out. AIR FORCE VETERAN During his high school days here Warner played in school orchestras. In 1940 he joined the RCAF. He was injured twice, in crashes in the Irish sea and in Portugal, while serving in the Coastal Command.

Back from the war he made a hit in local dance circles with a top hat sextet and novelty acts. He says now, however, he felt he would have reached a certain level of comedy and then hit a dead end.

The big break came in 1948 when he appeared on a radio talent show. After his performance he was booked for a Toronto cocktail lounge.

The following year he went to New York, where the Music Corporation of America placed him under contract.

In 1951 Warner returned to Nova Scotia and since then has played at top dances here and in other parts of the province. He is known chiefly as a singer, trumpet and a valve trombone player. He still has ambitions to master the flute.

Away from the bandstand Warner is a serious-minded student of modern philosophy. Since the war he has earned his Bachelor of Arts degree from Dalhousie University, studying on a part-time basis.

LETTERS

POWER BOATS

Kelley's Tent Resort Penticton

Sir: We have vacationed in Penticton and area for more than eighteen years (off and on), but this is the first year that we have enjoyed the excitement of watching the speed boats and skiers, threading their way among the children. I have only watched for two afternoons and then gave up as I couldn't stand it any longer.

During this period I witnessed one accident where a speed boat with a skier ran into a row boat and luckily no one was injured. There were many times when it appeared inevitable that boats and/or skiers would plow into the children on punts, boats and air mattresses.

I sincerely wish to congratulate the pilots of these boats and the skiers on their remarkable skill in avoiding the children and others in their swift and daring excursions into areas infested with other people. It is surely an exciting pastime for the spectators and I would suggest you advertise it for your Peach Festival as it will certainly give some sparkling, and maybe brutal excitement that will draw even larger crowds.

As for myself I will think three times about coming to Penticton beach with my children for the summer holidays.

UNEMPLOYMENT & STRIKES

Penticton.

Opinions expressed at July 29 council meeting that strikes are the main cause of unemployment in B.C. may be comfortable for such as might choose to avoid any share of responsibility; but these statements must be answered.

Surely we haven't forgotten how, last spring, the Penticton Board of Trade petitioned the Provincial government to delay work on the by-pass and Kruger hill roads as it was feared that such work might disturb tourist traffic.

The government gladly acceded to the request, throwing in assurances that the work would be delayed as long as possible.

It would be interesting to learn just which strike may be blamed for this hold-up to a work project that would have employed a good number of men and brought a goodly number of dollars to this community.

If the action of our Board of Trade was duplicated in various communities throughout the province I suggest therein may be found one of the major causes for the long lines of jobless who still celebrate their Centennial by weekly calls at our unemployment services, drawing on fast dwindling insurance reserves.

I delayed writing this letter in hopes that someone better qualified would do the job.

Yours truly,

NORMAN GARRISON.

GARDEN PARTY FOR SQUARE DANCERS

Square dance enthusiasts from all parts of Canada and the U.S., who are in Penticton for the fifth B.C. Square Dance Jamboree and the Peach Festival, even find time for more fun when they aren't dancing. During their four-day stay in this city they have been entertained extensively at after-dance parties, afternoon garden gatherings and other social events by members of the Peach City Promenaders. Visiting dancers from Vancouver and a number of local residents were among the guests when Mr. and Mrs. James Hendry entertained more than a hundred guests at a late-afternoon garden party at their home yesterday. Vancouver guests in the front row, left to right are: G. Gwyn, Ken Phillips and Wally Arthur; seated in back are: Mrs. G. Gwyn, Mrs. A. Evans, Mrs. Ken Phillips, Mrs. W. Arthur, Mrs. T. E. Leigh and A. Evans. Mr. Leigh, former Penticton council member, second from the left in back, is pictured with Alderman Elsie MacCleave, left, Mrs. E. H. Cotton, and Mr. Cotton, president of the Penticton Peach Festival Association.

MRS. KATHERINE TOEWS demonstrated the art of flower-making as a special attraction yesterday afternoon at the Penticton Peach Festival's Agricultural Exhibition in the Memorial Arena.

Flower Making at Agricultural Show

A snip of the scissors and a deft twist of a tiny piece of fine wire, and Mrs. Katherine Toews added the final artistic touch to a corsage of wood fibre flowers, as she demonstrated how they were made before an interested crowd yesterday at the Peach Festival's Agricultural Exhibition in the Memorial Arena.

The flower-making feature is one of several attractions in the hobby section at the agricultural show arranged by the Penticton Women's Institute under the supervision of Mrs. J. A. Rodell. A demonstration in various handicrafts has been featured each day; weaving, rug-making, quilting and other arts of the home maker. Rod Cross volunteers worked at a large quilting frame yesterday to demonstrate their skill in the needlework.

This evening Mrs. Guy Brock will demonstrate weaving on a small loom and display a number of the attractive table mats, bags and other articles she has made while engaged in her interesting hobby.

Other sections in the large exhibition feature an endless variety of articles sent in by local and distant competitors. Many are for display purposes, others to compete for one of several prizes.

Pieces of intricate embroidery, knitting, crocheted and other articles of fine needlework are marked with the prize winning tags, while the walls are hung with paintings displayed by local artists. In the latter showing are many fine water colors by Mary Gammner of Lakeside Road. The beautiful selection of Okanagan pottery by Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Schwenk is also attracting wide attention among the many spectators.

The art of home cooking is demonstrated in the golden brown loaves of bread, cakes, pies and canned fruits and vegetables sent in by the men as well as the women to compete for prizes. East festival season, the Women's Institute offers special prizes in the home cooking section at the show, and this year particular interest was attached

Novel Color Decor For Summer Living

A summer cottage offers the chance of a life time for amateur decorators to try out their whims. Color schemes which might be jarring in the city can be right at home in the country. It's easy to fall into a decorating rut, color stylists claim. They recommend a radical change in the color scene when moving to the country. The sophisticated yellows and greys of the city should be exchanged for the back-to-nature blues and greens of the country. The elegant rose tints of city homes should yield to earthy rusts and reds in a cottage designed for indoor-outdoor living.

Rougher building materials found in summer homes require special surface preparation, according to paint experts. In decorating unfinished wooden walls, knot holes should be sealed with shellac to prevent bleeding through the paint. Rough surfaces should be sanded down—the more sanding the smoother the finished coat will appear. An undercoat of alkylid paint is needed, followed by either an alkylid or latex finishing coat.

PETER TOMLIN'S SPORTS DIARY

Tomorrow is regatta day in the Peach City. At 1:30, the Penticton Aquatic Association's 8th annual regatta will get underway at the Skaha Lake swimming pool.

The regatta promises to be the biggest and best ever staged in Penticton. The A. J. Tough long-distance swim will highlight the day's activities.

Swimmers from all Valley points will compete in 29 swimming and diving events during the afternoon. In addition, there will be sculling, power-boat racing and water-ski demonstrations.

Awards to winners in all events will be made by Okanagan Lake conqueror, Mrs. Ann Meraw. In addition Mrs. Meraw will give a demonstration of the stroke she used in completing the now-famous swim down the lake.

Dag Wittall, a 9-year-old youngster from Kaleden has entered the distance swim. Word is that Dag is a powerful swimmer for his age and will be right in the running for honors in the featured event.

Two other entrants are Frank Christian, Penticton lawyer, and his daughter Carol. All told, eleven swimmers will tackle the 2000-metre course.

We received a letter this morning from Eileen Stevens of Vancouver, captain of the Vancouver Ladies' Cricket Club.

Eileen has thrown a challenge at the members of the fairer sex in the Okanagan. She says:

"The Vancouver Ladies' Cricket Club, which has been formed this summer, would welcome the opportunity to play a team of lady cricketers from the Okanagan."

"We would therefore like to challenge your ladies to a cricket match."

"We believe there must be many women in the Okanagan who have, in their time, played cricket and who would enjoy the opportunity to get out and play it again."

"Perhaps Penticton could field a team — or perhaps the Okanagan as a whole could field one."

"We would like to hear from any interested people. The more matches we can play, the better will we be known in B.C. and I am speaking not only for our Vancouver club, but for cricket as played by the 'women of British Columbia'."

What about it, ladies. Anyone care to accept Miss Stevens' challenge. It sounds to us like a pretty good idea.

Anyone interested can write to her at 1330 Pendrell Street, Vancouver.

We have had an urgent appeal from Cliff Greyell, referee-in-chief of the Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League, for applications for positions as referees and linesmen in the league this winter.

Cliff tells us that he has received only two applications to date. The league wants and requires far more interested men to try for these jobs.

Anyone interested should get in touch with him as soon as possible.

Marlene to Meet Mary Gay in Final

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
SASKATOON (CP) — The Canadian women's open golf championship final had a familiar ring about it today following a sensational semi-final round Friday, filled with suspense, drama and red-hot golf.

Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto met Mary Gay of Calgary and formerly of Kitchener, Ont. in the 36-hole final, consisting of morning and afternoon 18-hole rounds.

Mrs. Streit is seeking the title for a fifth time. Miss Gay tries for a fifth time to win the final, after losing it four times.

Both entered the final Friday in somewhat spectacular fashion. EXTRA HOLE BATTLE

The 26-year-old Calgary secretary dropped fantastic putts on the 18th and 21st greens to stay alive and then win on the fourth extra hole over Mrs. Hazel Jamison of Edmonton.

The 24-year-old Marlene fired three-under-par golf for 13 holes as she knocked off Donna Patton, 20, of Winnipeg 6 and 5.

On the basis of her previous four victories and former triumphs in the United States and British women's amateurs, Mrs. Streit must be the favorite in the final.

But the gallery at the Saskatoon Golf and Country Club has made Miss Gay a sentimental favorite.

Miss Gay was spectacular at the 18th, when she and Mrs. Jamison came in all even. Mrs. Gay's drive was in a sand trap. She blasted out and far over the green, and her approach left her a putt from the edge of the green. She had to sink it—and she did.

That forced extra holes. The two halved the 19th in par fives, the 20th in one-over-par fours and the 21st in birdie fours.

PUTS ON PRESSURE
Mrs. Jamison boldly stroked in a 20-foot downhill putt at the 21st, putting the pressure on Miss Gay again, but Mary sank her eight-foot putt for a half.

On the 22nd, Mrs. Jamison was in the rough off the tee. Her second went into the trees, but bounced out to the edge of the fairway. Mrs. Jamison's third was 40 feet off the green while Mary was on in three and got down in two putts for a par that beat her opponent's six.

Mrs. Streit was deadly accurate with her approach shots to the green and dropped her putts with regularity to defeat Miss Patton, who in four previous opens has never gone past the second round of match play. Donna held up well to the seventh hole but the pace told and she was unable to match the veteran the rest of the way.

Singles Titles At Stake Today

OTTAWA (CP) — The four-day closed section of the 11th annual Canadian junior tennis championships ends today with play in four singles finals.

At stake are the junior men's and women's singles and boys' and girls' singles.

The junior men's singles final will be between top-seeded Andre Toupin, 18, of Montreal, and second-ranked Yvon LeBlanc, 17, of Monville, Que., who were not pressed too much in earlier action.

The top woman player, Sharon Caldwell, 17, of Toronto, and fourth-ranked Judy Borland, 17-year-old Winnipeg miss, tangle in the junior women's final.

VICTORIA PAIR IN HUNT
The boys' final brings together first-seeded John Fraser, 15, of Victoria, and Claude Savarin, 15, of Boucherville, Que., while Vicki Berner, 13, of Victoria, plays Maria Stubbs of Winnipeg in the girls' final.

Friday's matches included play in the juvenile girls' and boys' singles, the junior men's semi-finals and the first half of the inter-provincial competitions.

Miss Berner captured the juvenile girls' singles with a 6-0, 6-4 triumph over 12-year-old Faye Urban of Windsor, Ont.

Bobby Piers, 13, of Truro, N.S., downed 13-year-old Ricky Borland of Winnipeg 6-2, 6-4 to win the juvenile boys' singles.

In inter-provincial action, the Ontario girls and Quebec boys won three straight singles while the Western girls and Ontario boys won one single and two doubles matches.

Phoenix, Mounties Hold on

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pacific Coast League came up with a pair of grade A cliffhangers last night as the Phoenix Giants held tight to their game lead over the second-place Vancouver Mounties.

The Giants participated in one of the screamers, finally beating Seattle 10-6 on a pinchhit, grand slam home run in the last of the ninth inning. Spokane Indians won the other, dropping San Diego 2-1 in a pitchers' game.

In other league action, the Sacramento Solons split a pair with the Salt Lake City Bees, winning 5-4 and then losing 2-1 and the Mounties had a 7-0 romp over Portland.

The Giants and Rainiers were content with one run apiece during the first six innings of their game. Then Phoenix went to town with two runs in the seventh and three in the eighth.

Seattle got one in the eighth and then tied it up at 6-6 with four in the top of the ninth. It just set the stage for Joe Amalfitano's game-winning blast in the Phoenix ninth. The Rainiers used four pitchers, the Giants five.

At Spokane, the Indians' Art Fowler gave up only four hits in his winning effort while San Diego's Bud Podbielan lost a toughly with a sparkling three-hitter. Both pitchers fanned five and walked only one.

Spokane got the winning run in the eighth inning on an error and Ron Sherry's only hit of the night, a double. San Diego's lone run came in the seventh on Dave Pope's triple and a sacrifice fly.

Erv Falica, one of Vancouver's old standbys, gave the Mounties a smooth ride by whitewashing the Beavers on six hits. It was his fifth shutout in 14 victories this season. He has lost eight.

The Mounties picked up single runs in the first, second, fourth and sixth and three in the fifth. Jim Dyck's 400-foot homer over the left field barrier accounted for the fifth-inning runs. Ray Barker homered for the Mounties in the fourth.

The Solons won their opener with Salt Lake City on the strength of a two-run seventh inning. Three singles and a sacrifice did the damage. Nippy Jones clouted a two-run homer for the Solons in the first inning, when the winners struck for three runs.

Salt Lake City's winning run in the nightcap came on a fourth-inning double by Sam Miley and an infield hit. The Solons only run was scored by Clem Moore, who singled and came in on Dick Cole's triple.

WON IN EASY STYLE

Balding Favored For Millar Cup

TORONTO (CP) — Al Balding of Markham is the only pre-tournament favorite remaining today as the Canadian match play championships move into the semi-final round at the Islington Golf Club course.

Balding, runner-up for the Millar Trophy last year, won his two matches Friday in easy style to move into this morning's semi-final with veteran Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener Rockway and dark horse Joe Noble, Toronto Thornhill, and Bill Kozak, Port Robinson, Ont.

Kozak was the giant-killer, upsetting defending champion Bill Mavhinney of Burlington, Ont., and Vancouver one up in the third round. Noble toppled Kitchener's Gerry Kesseling 2 and 1 in his quarter-final.

Noble opposes Balding in the first semi-final. Kozak is pitted against Tucker. The final was scheduled for the afternoon, the winner taking $1,000 in the $3,000 contest.

Easy-going Balding advanced with a 5 and 4 win over Lou Cummings, Toronto Golf Club, and then a 3 and 2 victory over Frank Whibley, Buffalo Park Club, in the quarter-final.

BATTLE OF NERVES
Kozak defeated Gordon Brydson, Toronto Mississauga, one up in his quarter-final. Kozak's morning round was a battle of nerves with Mavhinney.

"I never wanted to win anything more," Kozak said. At the 12th hole he was three down but he rallied to win the next three. He took the lead on the 15th when he dropped a 25-foot putt for a birdie three.

On the 18th Mavhinney made a sensational recovery from a clump of trees to land within seven feet of the pin. But he missed the putt that would have forced extra holes.

Lovers of Thursday's first and second rounds played an 18-hole medal consolation round. Lyle Crawford of Vancouver was best with a 68 to take $100.

SINKS PUTT FOR $9,000

Ken Venturi is $9,000 richer thanks to a phenomenal 60-foot putt for a birdie three on the 69th hole which enabled him to capture first prize in the Chicago open. His 72-hole total of 272, was eight under par and one stroke under scores posted by veterans Julius Boros and Jackie Burke, who tied for second. Venturi, 27-year-old San Francisco whiz, is shown, above, receiving the trophy from John McNulty, co-owner of the Glenageary country club where the tourney was held. A pro for nearly two years, Venturi has already earned over $60,000.

Ann Meraw Swam 55 Miles on Lake

Ann Meraw, Vancouver's swimming housewife, this morning laid claim to four world distance-swimming records.

Mrs. Meraw and her handlers stated the actual distance covered in her swim down Okanagan Lake from Kelowna to Penticton was 55 miles.

The four records claimed have been set in 1957 and 1958. She made three attempts to swim the distance and made good on her third try. She completed the swim the same day as Pat Wicks, 19-year-old Vancouver college student. Miss Wicks was the first person to complete the swim. Mrs. Meraw was second.

The records claimed are:
—In the year 1957 for distance and speed, over men and women—the world record by Mrs. Meraw—34 miles in 16 hours and 14 minutes.
—The first official swim from three runs.

WITT IS ANSWER
George (Red) Witt appears to be the answer to Pittsburgh's long search for the fourth starting pitcher behind Bob Friend, Ronnie Kline and Vern Law.

Although rookie Curt Raydon also has won five games, Witt's brilliant three-hit shutout of Cincinnati Friday night draws attention to him.

Witt, farmed out to Columbus of the International League in May, has rolled up a 5-2 record since his recall. He was working on a shutout against St. Louis last Sunday when the curfew Sadio dropped out of the race saying it was just too tough. Mrs. Meraw, making her third try, completed the swim, arriving in Penticton some seven hours after Miss Wicks.

Ford Blanks Sox For 7th Shutout

Yankees Extend Lead to 16½ Games; Witt Stops Reds 1-0

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Whitey Ford is sailing along with the best earned run average in the majors since Spud Chandler in 1943. The New York Yankees' chunky left-hander posted his seventh shutout Friday night, lowering his ERA to 1.66.

Chandler led the American League 15 years ago with a 1.64 ERA. The lowest in the National in 25 years was Carl Hubbell of the Giants with 1.66 in 1933.

Ford's 14th victory shunted the game after five innings. He struck out 10 Redlegs, including Bob Thurman four times, in his 1-0 victory over Joe Nuxhall.

Pittsburgh, momentarily derailed in Milwaukee, again is making menacing gestures in the National League race. The Pirates trail the Braves by eight games but are only one game behind San Francisco Giants.

STILL LOSING
The Giants continued their fearful tail spin, losing their 10th in 11 starts in bowing to Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3. The Giants remain seven games behind Milwaukee.

Philadelphia rallied to beat Milwaukee 7-6 on Bob Bowman's ninth-inning single. Bowman's three-run pinch homer had tied the score in the sixth. Dick Farrell was the winner on relief over Don McMahon who replaced Juan Pizarro in the sixth.

Del Emnis' grand-slam homer in the sixth broke up a duel between

SINK BALTIMORE
Washington sank Baltimore 4-2, the Orioles' 11th straight defeat, a new high for the majors this season. Dick Hyde, a key figure in more than half of the Senator victories, saved the day in relief of winner Russ Kemmerer in the eighth. It was his 15th successful relief job plus nine victories on his own.

Cleveland broke loose with six runs in the third inning for a 10-4 romp over Kansas City. Don Ferrarese took over for Jim (Mudcat) Grant with two out in the fifth and blanked the As the rest of the way. It was his first victory of the year.

Frank Lary pitched himself out of one jam after another and went the route to beat Chicago despite 14 White Sox hits. Al Kaline and Charlie Maxwell each drove in a pair of runs in Detroit's 6-2 victory.

RUNNELS STILL LEADS
Pete Runnels held tight to the American League batting lead with one hit in three official trips against Ford for a .335 average. Ike Delock was the losing pitcher.

Roy Sievers and Jim Lemon each had two hits in Washington's attack on Hal Brown and two successors. Both Baltimore runs, including Gus Triandos' 21st homer, came off Kemmerer. Ned Carver of the As was the victim of Cleveland's big spurge in the third inning, losing his eighth.

Chicago had at least one base runner in each inning and at least two in six of the nine but Lary left 13 stranded. Early Wynn was the loser, ending Chicago's four-game winning streak.

Two San Francisco Giant cast-offs, Dusty Rhodes, top, and pitcher Joe Margoneri, above, were kicked off a plane after they staged a fist-swinging brawl aboard the airliner while en route from Portland, Ore., to Los Angeles. The plane's radio was jammed for a moment and made for an emergency landing in San Francisco, as Rhodes, once a star for Giants in the World Series, and Margoneri reportedly broke lounge chairs and smashed tables as they lunged at one another. Both play for Phoenix Giants in the Pacific Coast league.

Disney Starts New Adventure Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Latest to join the larger-than-life folk heroes of the Walt Disney stable is a handsome young Latin named Robert Loggia.

Having chronicled the real and legendary exploits of Davy Crockett, Andy Burnett, Zorro and others, Disney now is taking on a new figure. He is Elfelego Baca, who died in 1945 at the end of a fantastic career in the American southwest.

A onetime friend of Billy the Kid and foe of Pancho Villa, he managed to escape unharmed from dozens of six-shooter encounters. The most notable was when he fought a 30-hour gun duel against 80 Texas cowboys. He killed four and wounded eight.

This adventure is featured in the first sequence of the Nine Lives of Elfelego Baca, which will launch the Walt Disney Presents (formerly Disneyland) series this fall. More will follow.

NOT WORRIED

Should it get the full Davy Crockett treatment, that could mean that Loggia might be identified with Baca for the rest of his acting life. Does that worry him?

"Not at all," he replied. "Fess Parker has been able to play other roles besides Crockett. It's true that they're all the outdoors type. But I don't think that will happen to me."

Bob is a New York boy of Italian descent, a football player and journalism graduate of the University of Missouri. But the footlights won out over the typewriter and he tried the acting life in New York. His 1954 earnings: $1,000.

But he kept trying and studied with coach Stella Adler. The jobs started coming in. TV. One on Playhouse 90 brought him to the attention of the Disney studio.

"It's my first time in boots, and I'm having the time of my life," he confessed.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"Sorry, I can't be interviewed in business hours. See me later and we'll talk shop."

The bidding:
 North Pass East 2♦ South 3NT West Pass

Opening lead—queen of clubs. Wherever you go in bridge circles, whether the caliber of the game be good, bad, or indifferent, the one thing that stands out is that there are many more points lost on the easy hands than are lost on the difficult ones.

No doubt this is because complicated hands are relatively rare, while the everyday garden variety of hands that require no special skill come up all the time. All that is needed in most hands is the ability to use good judgment consistently as each problem presents itself.

For example, take the bidding on this deal. North has no real choice whether to open the bidding with a heart, nor is there any question of the correctness of the two heart rebid.

And South's two diamond response is also clearly indicated, as well as his jump to three notrump. But what often happens when deals such as this one are encountered is that one player or the other gets the wrong perspective and makes a bid that causes the partnership to reach the wrong contract.

When it comes to the play of the hand at three notrump, there is an even greater danger that something will go wrong. Assuming the natural club lead, let's say declarer wins with the ace. But what does he do next?

Now I have given this hand for play purposes to quite a number of pupils, and it is surprising to me how many of them immediately take a heart finesse. For this indiscretion they are duly punished, since East wins with the king and returns a club, and South can no longer make the contract.

What these declarers fail to realize is that they are certain to make at least nine tricks if they take diamonds instead of hearts. And the reason hearts are played first is a psychological one. It is because the club lead happens to be taken in the South hand and it is more convenient to lead hearts at once than to get to dummy with a spade to take a diamond finesse.

They're just plain lazy, that's all.

Talks Deadlocked On Cyprus Issue

ATHENS (Reuters) — Talks, made to introduce some system between the British and Greek prime ministers on Cyprus appeared deadlocked today following their third meeting within 48 hours.

After a 90-minute meeting between Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan and Greece's Constantine Karamanlis, Greek Foreign Minister Evangelos Averoff told reporters he felt "pessimistic."

"There was a useful exchange of views, but no progress was made," he said.

A British source said, however, that "agreement in principle" had been reached on maintaining the status quo in Cyprus for seven years while efforts are made to introduce some system of self-government.

After the talks, Macmillan appeared to fly to Ankara for a conference with Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes.

Cyprus Governor Sir Hugh Foot met here today with the exiled Greek-Cypriot religious leader, Archbishop Makarios. It was their second meeting.

The archbishop said the mass arrests of Greek Cypriots by British security forces on the island was one topic discussed.

The northwest coast of Canada, that "agreement in principle" says the Book of Knowledge, has numerous tribes of Indians, each with its own language and traditions.

All-Purpose Room Feature of Interesting Bungalow Plan

Architect R. T. Affleck, of Montreal, has emphasized open planning in the living area of this house. The living room overlooks the back garden and extends into an all-purpose area which can be closed off to become a study, a guest room, on occasion, or a third bedroom. Closet space is plentiful throughout the house and there is a well-lighted clear area in the basement which could be made into a playroom. Cross ventilation has been provided in the bedrooms, which are well-separated from living area in the house.

The total floor area is 994 square feet and the exterior dimensions are 42 feet by 23 feet, eight inches. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 253, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

ASSEMBLY DEBATE

New Blueprint For Mid-East

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) A new blueprint for stability in the Middle East, taking into account the rise of Nasser Arab nationalism, may be a concrete result of the emergency meeting of the United Nations General Assembly which gets down to solid debate next week.

The meeting, under a unanimously agreed call from the Security Council, was convened late Friday in a brief session marked significantly by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's appeal for a long-range plan to strike at the roots of Middle East tension.

Immediately after Hammarskjöld's statement, the assembly president, Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, adjourned the session until Wednesday to allow time for consideration of the secretary-general's idea. In addition, the delay will permit such figures as State Secretary Dulles of the United States, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to reach their headquarters for the opening of full discussion. Canada's External Affairs Minister Smith also is expected to be on hand. The secretary-general told the delegates from all 81 of the UN member countries that their deliberations at this extraordinary session could, in his hope, make a start at settling the underlying problems of which the July crisis was only an outward indication.

IRAQI COUP

On July 14 the monarchy in Iraq was overthrown in a brief but bloody revolution in which King Faisal himself and his prime minister were numbered among the dead. The following day the United States began landing troops in Lebanon to protect the government there from a similar overthrow. Britain sent airborne troops to Jordan to bolster the government of Faisal's cousin, King Hussein.

Since then the crisis has eased with an apparent agreeable attitude by the Iraqi revolutionary government and its subsequent recognition by the major Western powers as well as the Communist states who seized upon the outbreak as a propaganda opportunity.

The Soviet Union all along has called for withdrawal of the British and American forces and offered support to Nasser's contention that the Western-supported governments are opposed by their own peoples.

Hammarskjöld took note of this in his speech to the assembly, conceding that the rise of Arab nationalism under Nasser should not really be regarded in the West as a menace.

VOICE MUTUAL RESPECT

He told the assembly that the countries of the Nasser-led Arab league of Egypt and Syria "have subscribed to the principles of mutual respect for each other's territories, integrity and sovereignty; of non-aggression; of non-interference in each other's internal affairs."
